Shipments may be subject to volumetric weight. This can be calculated by multiplying all three dimensions together and dividing by 6000. If the volumetric weight is heavier than the gross weight, the volumetric weight would be charged. For example, a 2kg parcel with dimensions 54 x 23 x 18cm will calculate as follows:

$54 \times 23 \times 18 = 22356$
 $22356 \text{ divided by } 6000 = 3.73$
Volume weight is 3.73kg
